Section 1.0 – Introduction and Background

1.1 Scope of Submission

1.1.1 This submission by the Association of Mining and Exploration Companies Inc. is in response to the following applications made to the National Competition Council:

- The Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Hamersley Iron Rail Network, dated 16 November 2007;
- The Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Mount Goldsworthy Joint Venture Participants, dated 16 November 2007; and
- The Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Robe River Joint VenturersqPilbara Railway, dated 18 January 2008.

1.2 Definitions

1.2.1 The following words have these meanings in this Submission:

AMEC means the Association of Mining and Exploration Companies Inc.

ARA means the Australasian Railway Association Inc.

Council means the National Competition Council established by the Trade Practices Act 1974

FMG means Fortescue Metals Group Ltd

FROG means the Freight Rail Operators Group

Hamersley Application means the Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Hamersley Iron Rail Network, dated 16 November 2007

Mount Goldsworthy Application means the Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Mount Goldsworthy Joint Venture Participants, dated 16 November 2007

Robe Application means the Application by The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd for Declaration of the Service provided by the Robe River Joint VenturersqPilbara Railway, dated 18 January 2008

TPA means the Trade Practices Act 1974

TPI means The Pilbara Infrastructure Pty Ltd

1.3 Declaration Criteria

1.3.1 This submission is based on the Trade Practices Act 1974 which requires that the Council cannot recommend that a service be declared unless the Council is satisfied that all of the following criteria (set out in Section 44G(2) of the Trade Practices Act 1974) are met:

- (a) that access (or increased access) to the service would promote competition in at least one market (whether or not in Australia), other than the market for the service;
- (b) that it would be uneconomical for anyone to develop another facility to provide the service;
- (c) that the facility is of national significance, having regard to:
  - (i) the size of the facility; or
  - (ii) the importance of the facility to constitutional trade or commerce; or
  - (iii) the importance of the facility to the national economy;
- (d) that access to the service can be provided without undue risk to human health or safety;
- (e) that access to the service is not already the subject of an effective access regime; and
- (f) that access (or increased access) to the service would not be contrary to the public interest.

1.3.2 This submission will address Criteria A-F.

1.4 About AMEC

1.4.1 AMEC is the peak industry body for junior and mid-size mineral exploration and mining companies within Australia. Its membership is almost three times larger than its nearest national counterpart and is comprised largely of junior and mid-tier mineral exploration and mining companies. Formed in 1981, AMEC is 'the voice' and most successful advocate for mineral exploration within Australia.

1.4.2 AMEC's strategic objective is to secure an environment that fosters mineral exploration and mining in Australia in a commercially, politically, socially and environmentally responsible manner. Since inception, one of AMEC key strengths has been that it is free of 'capture' by large companies paying enormous subscriptions. As a consequence, AMEC is not driven by the specific interests of large companies and this credibility enables AMEC to retain strong relationships with all sides of politics at the highest level and provide members with an advocacy power they could not otherwise generate.

1.4.3 AMEC membership includes a number of companies that have iron ore tenements in the Pilbara. These companies include:

- Atlas Iron Limited, which has the Pardoo project<sup>1</sup> (located approximately 50km east of Port Hedland and in close proximity to the Great Northern Highway and the Goldsworthy railway line) and the Abydos project<sup>2</sup> (located some 130km south of Port Hedland and close to existing rail infrastructure). Atlas also has iron ore interests in Western Australia's Midwest. In March 2008 advised that environmental approvals remain on track for commencing export of direct shipping grade (DSO) iron ore from the Pardoo Project (75km east of Port Hedland) by October 2008. The company is targeting export of 1 million tonnes of DSO iron ore during the first 12 months of operations with production growing to 3 million tonnes per annum by 2010. Together with the development of the Abydos Project (120km south of Port Hedland) the company is initially targeting production of 6Mtpa of DSO in calendar year 2010, with continued growth thereafter.<sup>3</sup>

- BC Iron Limited which has the Nullagine project<sup>4</sup> (located to the north of FMG's Cloudbreak project and rail infrastructure). BC Iron has advised that a key milestone during the Quarter [ending 31 December 2007] was the commencement of a Scoping Study to examine a potential start-up operation at the Bonnie Creek Channel Iron Deposit (CID) at an initial production rate of 3 million tonnes per annum (Mtpa) of direct shipping ore (DSO).<sup>5</sup>
- FerrAus Limited which has the Robertson Range, Davidson Creek and Murramunda projects in the east Pilbara<sup>6</sup>. FerrAus states that it is fast tracking development of its flagship Robertson Range iron ore project, which has a current resource of 30.6 million tonnes at 58.7% Fe, to produce low-cost, direct-shipping hematite.<sup>7</sup>
- Consolidated Minerals Limited which controls a 50% interest in the Mindy Mindy project some 60km northwest of Newman<sup>8</sup>. The other 50% is controlled by FMG.
- Iron Ore Holdings Limited, which has a number of projects in the central Pilbara area<sup>9</sup>. The company's strategy is to prove up and mine commercial quantities of Direct Shipping Ore (DSO) on its tenements in the most prospective part of the Pilbara region, adjacent to BHP Billiton's and Hamersley Iron's Yandi and Yandicoogina mines.<sup>10</sup>
- Australasian Resources Limited has the right to mine 1 billion tonnes of magnetite iron ore from the Susan Palmer deposit within the Southern Block of the Balmoral resource located approximately 80km southwest of the town of Karratha. The Balmoral deposit is reputedly the world's largest undeveloped magnetite resource potentially hosting 60 - 100 billion tonnes of magnetic Banded Iron Formation.<sup>11</sup>
- Aurox Resources Limited which has the Balla Balla project<sup>12</sup> (located around 120km southwest of Port Hedland).
- Brockman Resources Limited which has the Marillana project located some 100km northwest of Newman. Brockman's website notes that drilling in the last year has confirmed a JORC compliant Mineral Resource of over 1.1 billion tonnes of iron ore including a direct shipping ore (DSO) component of 56.2 Mt grading 57.5% Fe (62.6% Fe on a calcined basis) and 1.06 billion tonnes of beneficiation feed. A scoping study is already well advanced on a potential 10 mtpa operation.<sup>13</sup>
- Cazaly Resources Limited, which has the Shovelanna deposits<sup>14</sup> (located close to existing BHP Billiton operations some 25km from Mount Newman).

Section 2.0 - Consideration of the Criteria

2.1 Criterion A

“that access (or increased access) to the service would promote competition in at least one market (whether or not in Australia), other than the market for the service”

- 2.1.1 AMEC submits that the Applications satisfy Criterion A on the basis that access (or increased access) to the service would promote competition in at least one market (whether or not in Australia), other than the market for the service.
- 2.1.2 Increased access would promote competition in the market for the transport of bulk mineral commodities (particularly iron ore) between mine sites and export ports (which, in relation to Pilbara iron ore, focus on Port Hedland, Wickham and Dampier). It would also promote competition in the global market for the supply of these mineral commodities because a greater number of miners would be able to participate in the global market because of access to transport infrastructure available to get their products to market.

Increased Competition in the Market for the Transport of Iron Ore

- 2.1.3 Transport infrastructure is essential in order for iron ore miners are able to get their products to their export markets. Iron ore is bulk commodity requiring very high capacity transport infrastructure, unlike commodities such as gold or diamonds (which can be transported in vans or small trucks) or uranium (which is typically transported in shipping containers on semi-trailers).
- 2.1.4 A lack of suitable, accessible, and cost-effective infrastructure will result in miners being unable to transport their products to purchasers, effectively excluding them from that market. Fewer participants in the market diminishes competition.
- 2.1.5 The market in the transportation of iron ore between mines and export ports (Port Hedland, Wickham and Dampier) in the Pilbara consists primarily of several railway lines together with those companies that are able to operate iron ore transport services over those railway lines. Under present arrangements, the monopoly operators of the rail services are generally also the owners of the rail infrastructure. Opening up railway infrastructure to additional rail operators could break existing monopolies.
- 2.1.6 Many different types of transport infrastructure can be used to transport mineral commodities between mines and ports. These include railways, road haul (trucks), barges, pipelines and conveyor belts. In the Pilbara, the distances involved and the large volume of commodities transported reduces the cost-effective transport options to road and rail. Pipeline transport is an option in some circumstances, but suffers from a lack of scalability.
- 2.1.7 The economic, social and environment costs of rail transport are likely to be less than the cost of using road transport for the same route and volume of commodity.
- 2.1.8 AMEC notes that paragraphs 8.9 to 8.10 of the TPI Hamersley Application, 8.14 to 8.19 of the TPI Robe Application, and 8.9 to 8.10 of the TPI Mount Goldsworthy Application place some context around the relative benefits of rail versus road haulage.
- 2.1.9 A rail industry peak body, the Freight Rail Operators Group (FROG)<sup>15</sup> states that rail transport has significantly lower social and environmental costs than road transport in Australia, and that efficient rail is a cheaper mode of freight transport than road on all inter-capital corridors. FROG also argues that rail is the safest form of land transport, and that it is nine times more energy efficient than road transport.<sup>16</sup>

<sup>16</sup> http://www.frog.org.au/rail\_information.html [accessed 5 February 2008]

- 2.1.10 The Australasian Railway Association Inc. (ARA)<sup>17</sup>, another rail industry peak body, argues that rail transport is considerably more energy efficient than road transport, therefore reducing Australia's dependence on oil imports. Our line haul freight movements by rail are three times more energy efficient than moving the same freight by truck<sup>18</sup>.
- 2.1.11 The ARA also contends that rail transport emits significantly less greenhouse gasses and pollution for a given transport task, reducing transport emissions that contribute to climate change, is safer (twenty times safer than road freight), and a healthier option for communities than road transport<sup>19</sup>.
- 2.1.12 A 1991 Industry Commission inquiry into rail transport found that railways have a competitive advantage in transporting bulk commodities over relatively long distances.<sup>20</sup>

Increased Competition in the Trade in Iron Ore Tenements

- 2.1.13 Mining tenements and mineral rights (including iron ore) are continually being granted, expiring, or being traded through mechanisms such as the direct sale of tenements, the sale of rights to certain commodities, farm-in/farm-out arrangements, and mergers/acquisitions. Tenements may also remain in the same ownership for many years, as is the case with some iron ore tenements in the Pilbara.
- 2.1.14 As at 11 April 2008 there were in excess of 2680 live tenements within 100km of Pilbara rail infrastructure with a further 1640+ tenements pending. These tenements are detailed in Appendix A.
- 2.1.15 Tenements (and other types of mineral rights) only have real potential when the owner of the tenement (or the entity have rights to the commodities sought) is able to mine that commodity and transport it to market in a way that allows profit to be generated.
- 2.1.16 Increasing the market in the transport of iron ore (as described earlier) would increase the transport options available to potential miners. This would increase the potential viability of mining on iron ore tenements, which in turn would make those tenements more valuable and more attractive, resulting in a greater propensity for the trading of those tenements.

2.2 Criterion B

“that it would be uneconomical for anyone to develop another facility to provide the service”

- 2.2.1 AMEC submits that the applications satisfy Criterion B on the basis that it would be uneconomical for anyone to develop another facility to provide the service.
- 2.2.2 The Mount Goldsworthy Application notes that the Goldsworthy rail line is some 210km long and would cost some $750 million to replicate.<sup>21</sup> The Robe Application states that length of that rail line is also some 210km, with a replication cost of between $735 million to $935 million.<sup>22</sup> The Hamersley Application notes that the length of the Hamersley rail line is some 625km.<sup>23</sup>

<sup>21</sup> Mount Goldsworthy Application, p16

- 2.2.3 The TPI replication costs described above provide an approximate cost of $3.5 million per kilometre, meaning that the cost of replicating the 1045km of track covered by the three Applications is in the vicinity of $3.7 billion.
- 2.2.4 The cost of replicating the infrastructure is likely to exceed the financial capacity of additional iron ore producers, particularly smaller emerging producers.
- 2.2.5 TPI's Goldsworthy Application notes the financial cost is in addition to considerable social, environmental and Aboriginal heritage objections to the building of a new railway when an existing railway was already available and for most of its length very underutilised.<sup>24</sup>
- 2.2.6 AMEC submits that the costs described above in paragraphs 2.2.2 to 2.2.5 are prohibitive to additional iron ore miners entering the iron ore export market because of cost impediments associated with construction of additional infrastructure.

2.3 Criterion C

“that the facility is of national significance, having regard to: (i) the size of the facility; or (ii) the importance of the facility to constitutional trade or commerce; or (iii) the importance of the facility to the national economy”

- 2.3.1 AMEC submits that the applications satisfy Criterion C on the basis of the size of the facility, the importance of the facility to constitutional trade or commerce, and the importance of the facility to the national economy.

Size of Facility

- 2.3.2 The size of the facilities subject to the three TPI applications is significant, with a combined rail length of some 1045km.
- 2.3.3 The Mount Goldsworthy Application notes that the Goldsworthy rail line is some 210km long and would cost some $750 million to replicate.<sup>25</sup> The Robe Application states that length of that rail line is also some 210km, with a replication cost of between $735 million to $935 million.<sup>26</sup> The Hamersley Application notes that the length of the Hamersley rail line is some 625km.<sup>27</sup>
- 2.3.4 The TPI replication costs described above give a ballpark cost of around $3.5 million per kilometre, meaning that the cost of replicating the 1045km of track covered by the three Applications is in the vicinity of $3.7 billion.

Importance of Facility and Importance to the National Economy

- 2.3.5 The importance to the national economy is demonstrated by the value of iron ore exports to the Australian economy. During 2006-07 some 258.28Mt of iron ore, with a value of more than $15 billion was mined in Western Australia.<sup>28</sup> The Western Australian Government acknowledges the importance the iron ore industry to the State:

The iron ore industry plays a pivotal role in Western Australia's export-driven economy, contributing $15.34 billion or 30 per cent of the total value of mineral and petroleum sales for 2006-07. This equates to around $1.8 million per hour and accounts for 28 per cent of the State's merchandise exports.<sup>29</sup>

- 2.3.6 In the Robe Application TPI states that the Robe Railway supported exports valued at around US$2.5bn in 2006.<sup>30</sup>
- 2.3.7 The Australian Bureau of Agriculture and Resource Economics (ABARE) projected that Australia's iron ore production will increase from 264 Mt in 2005-06 to 441 Mt in 2011-12 and iron ore exports will rise from 239 Mt to 405 Mt over the same period.<sup>31</sup>
- 2.3.8 The volume of iron ore exported, together with the export value of that iron ore, highlights the economic importance of the railway infrastructure.
- 2.3.9 The Western Australian iron ore industry is a very important part of Australia's national economy. The State Government has clearly stated the ongoing importance of the industry to the State's economy:

The State's iron ore industry is poised for a long-term future of high production rates with some initial supply difficulties. It is an industry diversifying into new mines and a changing production mix with the major iron ore companies continuing to improve product quality and infrastructure.<sup>32</sup>

2.4 Criterion D

“that access to the service can be provided without undue risk to human health or safety”

- 2.4.1 AMEC submits that the applications satisfy Criterion D on the basis that access to the service can be provided without undue risk to human health or safety.
- 2.4.2 Further, AMEC believes that increased use of the existing rail infrastructure resulting from the TPI Applications succeeding will result in decreased risk to human health and safety on the basis that the transport of bulk commodities will be less likely to occur on public roads where mine-related road traffic interacts with general road traffic.

2.5 Criterion E

“that access to the service is not already the subject of an effective access regime”

- 2.5.1 AMEC submits that the Applications satisfy Criterion E on the basis that access to the service is not already the subject of an effective access regime.
- 2.5.2 The Mount Goldsworthy Applications note that:
- The only access regime in respect of access to track services in Western Australia is the Western Australian Rail Access regime established by the State Government through the Railways (Access) Act 1998 (WA)... and the Railways (Access) Code 2000 (WA)... [this] Regime has not been certified as effective by the Minister under s44N of the [Trade Practices Act] the WA Regime does not apply to the Goldsworthy Railway (or to any other railway in the Pilbara).*<sup>33</sup>
- 2.5.3 AMEC has no additional information indicating that the services identified in the applications are subject to existing access regimes.

2.6 Criterion F

“that access (or increased access) to the service would not be contrary to the public interest”

- 2.6.1 AMEC submits that the Applications satisfy Criterion F on the basis that access (or increased access) to the service would not be contrary to the public interest. On the contrary, AMEC believes that the public interest would be served through increased access.
- 2.6.2 AMEC concurs with the Council’s approach that public interest relates to the effects of declaration on the welfare of the community as a whole, and that a key public interest consideration is the net impact of declaration on economic efficiency.<sup>34</sup>
- 2.6.3 The increased access to infrastructure that would result in a declaration of the existing rail infrastructure could see additional iron ore mining activity in the Pilbara, which in turn would result in increased employment and increased taxation and royalty payments to the State and Federal Governments. AMEC believes that this employment and payments to Governments are obvious benefits to the community as a whole. AMEC further believes that the use of existing infrastructure (as opposed to the replication of existing infrastructure) would represent the most economically efficient of the options available.

Section 3.0 – Concluding Comment

In conclusion, AMEC submits that the three Applications covered by this document satisfy Criteria A-F as set out in Section 44G(2) of the Trade Practices Act 1974 for the reasons stated in this document.

Further, AMEC believes that the Applications deserve serious consideration by the Council on the basis of the broader public interest issues raised in the Applications.

AMEC would be pleased to provide additional material or comment should this be required by the Council, and may be contacted via the following contact details:
